

OREGON MUSEUMS ASSOCIATION + WASHINGTON MUSEUM ASSOCIATION

JOINT VIRTUAL CONFERENCE
SEP 13-15 2021

WELCOME

Oregon Museums Association (OMA) and Washington Museum Association (WaMA) are excited to join forces to host our 2021 Conference: A Changed Landscape, A Changed Museum. This past year changed us all, as we grappled with COVID-19, systemic racism, political strife, and climate change. We progress into 2021 with the news of vaccinations, re-openings, and new COVID-19 variants with caution and a sense of hope. As we emerge into a changed landscape, we become changed museums. Join WaMA and OMA to re-emerge, re-invent, and re-imagine a stronger museum future.

Our conference features 12 sessions, two workshops and two roundtables, as well as a keynote and performances. Most will be pre-recorded, with live Q&A at the end with presenters.

The week before the conference, we will send registrants a schedule with Zoom links to all presentations.

WORKSHOP 1

PUT YOUR MONEY WHERE YOUR VALUES ARE!

Learn effective institutional transparency and accountability in this interactive workshop exploring how organizational values can frame annual budget-making processes. Using Five Oaks Museum's values-based budgeting as a case study, this workshop is for those who are interested in organizational change, decolonizing museums, internal equity, and becoming radically accountable to your community.

ROUNDTABLE 1

AND/ALSO: CULTURAL ADVOCACY POST COVID-19

Working from a recent legislative case study, staff from 4Culture will highlight changes we have seen in the 2021 political landscape as a result of the many 2020 crises, including the racial reckoning after George Floyd's murder and the COVID-19 public health crisis. 4Culture, and likely many other funders, have largely focused legislative cultural advocacy on funding. We'll talk about some of the reasons behind this and share how we think this approach can and perhaps should change. Through a case study about Senate Bill 5059, which sought to increase criminal charge for defacement of public monuments, we will explore how museums and cultural organizations can remain relevant through their civic participation in advocacy for causes outside of just funding.

KEYNOTE: MANIFESTING CHANGE

Museums and cultural heritage organizations are transforming to rise to the potential of this moment and the watershed events of 2020. Last year, a collective of museum workers came together to address specific challenges facing museums and cultural organizations in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic and calls for social justice following the murder of George Floyd. This culminated in a virtual event called “collective liberation.”

Keynote speakers Jackie and Aletheia are Pacific Northwest-based cultural heritage workers who joined this nationwide coalition, and will be presenting on their experience. The conversation will address events leading up to this moment of change and invite attendees to reflect on the ways we might seize current momentum to effect lasting change that takes root and flourishes across our industry. Attendees are encouraged to join the discussion, thinking about the following:

- How do you feel you have seized the opportunity of our current momentum toward field-wide change?
- What COVID-19-related changes do you want to sustain?
- What is a reality you can never go back to, something that would be unimaginable to do after this year?
- Have you found any new champions, partners, or supporters of the changes you have implemented?

Jackie Peterson (she/her) is an independent museum consultant with a focus on exhibit development, curation, and writing for history museums, historic sites, and other cultural institutions. With over a decade of exhibits experience, she has worked nationally with museums, communities, and stakeholders to uncover and illuminate meaningful stories and create authentic, truthful, and enlightening exhibitions. Jackie leverages the power of language and narrative to create exhibitions that attest to the nuances of our human experience, spark conversation, and bring people together. Much of Jackie’s independent work has focused on storytelling through exhibitions highlighting the experiences and lives of African Americans in Washington State, including the award-winning Bold as Love: Jimi Hendrix at Home exhibition at the Northwest African American Museum and HistoryLink.org’s Central District walking tour.

Aletheia Wittman (she/her) is an independent consultant helping cultural heritage organizations navigate inclusive transformation and use lessons from their institutional genealogies to take action. She co-founded The Inclusion in 2012 and currently acts as co-director. Wittman previously worked at the Burke Museum of Natural History and Culture in Seattle, WA from 2017-2020 and from 2012-2016 she managed exhibits as well as youth and family programming for the Seattle Architecture Foundation (SAF). Aletheia holds an MA in Museology from the University of Washington.
